By L. D. SALE.

Well, the sleigh carnival did not materialize as advertised Thursday after-

Early in the day old Sol put the footing on the Speedway, also on the Potomac Driveway, on the blink, the result being that nothing was doing. Gen. Nelson A. Miles appeared early on the scen behind his fast and handsome pair of bays, all fitted out with Russian belis and, with other up-to-date equipment anxious for a brush, but was compelled to return his rig to his private stable with his ambition unsatisfied.

Harry Hesser and William Blatcher came down from Mount Pleasant with also found the footing not to their liking.

Andrew Gleeson, who promised to be on the field early with Nan Patterson and make Gen. Miles take to the fall times.

Michael Morris was afraid Ferka might strike a tendon, and was also absent. Peter Loftus could not get Miss Arcola to the blacksmith shop, in order that her shoes might be roughed, and did not flash up as promised. E. F. Hall, who pledged himself to be present with the pick of his large stable of frotters and pacers, got cold feet at the eleventh hour. D. J. McCarthy was afraid that Harry Madden might be present and also falled to show up, and so it went all along the line of District of Columbia horsemen who are wont to make merry on the snow path whenever the opportunity presents itself. The only spot within the corporate limits was what is now called the White Lot. The present Ellipse was the thought of President Grant, who was a lover of the American trotter and a patron of light harness sport. He expressed a desire to the head of the Engineer Corps—that splendid body of men who have done so much for improvements of various kinds on this continent—for a spot where he might exercise his fine stable of trotters at speed, and, in close proximity to the White House, and the present Ellipse is the result.

The Speedway just abandoned has cost the horsemen of the District upward of $4,000; so, taking it all in all, the horsemen of the District of Columbia have expended in the neighborhood of $10,000 to $12,000 in building and keeping in repair speedways of which they were tenants and to which they had no legal titles.

If a permanent speedway becomes an established fact, the horsemen of the District of Columbia will still be tenants at will. When they obey the rules laid down we understand that their obligations will cease. It is understood that the Federal government will maintain the course and keep it in order at its own expense. Whether this be true or not, a permanent speedway will be a great boon conferred on the horsemen of the District, and everybody may rest assured that no other city in this country will have a course exactly as good for the purpose for which it will be dedicated. My Dear Mr. De Graw: I have just received your letter of December 14, and learn with regret of your resignation from the presidency of the Road Drivers and Riders' Association, which you did so much to build up. I sincerely hope that my relations with the associations may continue to be as pleasant and satisfactory as they have always been in the past under your presidency, and I echo your wish that the plans for the improvement of Potomac Park may permit the construction of a permanent road-way for speeding purposes. Very truly yours.

Two years has been sufficient to revolutionize the sale of Sporting Goods in Washington and Baltimore and the National has done it. Buying cheaper and in larger quantities, it can sell to the public at bottom prices, giving them the benefit of every discount it obtains. Mr. Tappan, the pioneer of the sporting goods business in Washington, is in charge of the Washington Store, with every facility at his disposal to render you the #### Best Sporting Goods Service Obtainable.

There's a meeting room in the store at the disposal of organizations of all sorts; there's a rifle range in charge of the well-known expert, Mr. Ralph Coleman. Behind the counters there are salesmen who know sporting goods from A to 2, who are eager and anxious to wait upon you and ready to give you any information within their power. Better than all, however, are the remarkably low prices which prevail there—prices which no other concern can equal and which permit sound, substantial economics. In a word, if you want the best sporting goods obtainable at the lowest prices you cannot afford to overlook the "National."

UNUSUAL SEASON'S SUCCESS IN GUNS,

Among the hundred or more guns sold by the National, there were two of the highest grade Parker Shotguns; one sold to Mr. C. M. Acklen for $525.00; another to Mr. J. C. Zobrist for $425.07.

Philadelphia, Pa.) Dec. 17 .- According to the report of the treasurer of the University of Pennsylvania Athletic Association just issued, there were only two sports that paid expenses during the last fiscal year, which ended on August 31. These were football and basket-ball. The other three major sports, baseball, track athletics, and rowing, were ren at a loss, while all of the minor sports, barring basket-ball, were a dead loss to the association. It was only by means of the receipts from football that the association was able to maintain the other sports.
